"Crazy People"
I Peter 2:9-12

Beginning in August for the past many years, we have enjoyed a summer concert tour series, and this year is no exception. The videos I will be sharing are listed at the end of this article. Below is an excerpt from the very first song in our 2022 series.

Crazy people trust in Jesus
Following Him wherever He leads us
Kingdom seekers, walk by faith believers
Here's the church, here's the steeple, here's to all God's crazy people

Those are the words to the refrain for Casting Crown's song, 'Crazy People'. This song takes me back to my DC Talk days with 'Jesus Freak'. (It's still one of my favorite songs!) I have come to really appreciate the meaning behind those words, and this Casting Crown song reflects that same idea. By the world's standards, Christians should look a little freakish, a little crazy because of how we deal with life. We are to be a 'peculiar' people, as Peter describes those who are followers of Jesus (I Peter 2:9 KJV). He goes on to say we are a chosen people, a royal priesthood. We are people who belong to God. And in that relationship we become aliens (not the other planet type either) and strangers in this world. The problem is that far too many 'Christians' look quite comfortable and at home in the world's culture. Too often we reflect the values of this world rather than the values and the heart of God as revealed clearly through His word, and especially through Jesus, who is really The Word who came in the flesh (John 1:1-14)! So how can we change this? How can we be less worldly and more godly?

Let's look again at the words of Peter. In I Peter 2:12, he challenges his readers to live such good lives that those outside the body of believers would see their good deeds and be drawn to God and give Him the glory for those good things His children are doing! You see it is all about glorifying God and His Son Jesus. We are to be pointing people to Him, not drawing attention to ourselves. All that we do, all that we say are to be reflections of the One who saved us-- Jesus!

Looking again at the song 'Crazy People', the lyrics point out some Old Testament crazy people and then moves into our own culture and points out people who might be called crazy by the world.

Looking again at the song 'Crazy People', the lyrics point out some Old Testament crazy people and then moves into our own culture and points out people who might be called crazy by the world.

Who builds a boat with no clouds in sight?
Who walks up to a giant and picks the fight?
Who turns a lion's den into a petting zoo?
Who can have a church in the fire of a furnace?
Who brings a Bible into a public school?
Who shares a gospel even when the world calls them a fool?
And who's not afraid to go against the flow?
Well, cancel me and call me 'one of those'

Take some time to listen to the song and even watch the video before the 7th, so that you will be more prepared to receive what the Holy Spirit will bring that morning. I'm looking forward to a great tour season again!

Blessings, my fellow Jesus freaks!

"You shall not murder.", Exodus 20:13 and Deuteronomy 5:17

There are some parts of the bible that, quite honestly, can be confusing to understand or explain. Thankfully, this command is not one of them! Note that all modern English translations use the word murder, where some of the older translations like the KJV, ASV, and RSV all use the word kill. The word murder is more accurate in terms of the meaning of the original Hebrew word, which referred to the intentional killing of an innocent person. This does not take into account things like accidental deaths, or death by authorization (war, capital punishment, or avenge killings.) The bible never gives us the right to take the life of another based on our own will. Punishments for those committing murder were to be equal to the crime (see Numbers 35). Genesis 9:6 establishes the principle of capital punishment (long before the Mosaic Law!) and affirms that the reason is because humans are made in the image of God. The reason, given in Genesis 1:26-27, is that human beings are made in the image and likeness of God himself. Protecting innocent human life shows reverence for God. This extends from the unborn in the womb (Exodus 21:22-25) to the very old (Leviticus 19:32).

Allow your thoughts to linger on that for just a moment. We are to protect innocent life because all humans – every man, woman, and child on our planet – reflect the image of God. Murder destroys that image. There are two other ways that can easily destroy the image of God in another person. Fast forward to the New Testament, to Matthew 5 and the words of Jesus from the Sermon on the Mount. Jesus has just said that He is the fulfillment, the completion, of the law; and the first illustration he gives is of murder. Amazingly, Jesus connects murder with anger. The action of murder stems from the attitude of anger; and both the action and the attitude result in judgment. No one murders someone out of joy or excitement. Murder – the intentional taking of an innocent human life – is always a manifestation of anger. Remember that murder is an attack against the image of God, and Jesus tells us anger is too! When we are angry with someone, we stop seeing them as a person created by and loved by God, just as we are. We stop seeing the Creator's image in them.

Lastly, gossip or slander destroys the image of God in another person. "Do not go about spreading slander among your people. Do not do anything that endangers your neighbor's life. I am the LORD." (Lev. 19:16) Slander and gossip are related to lying, and this verse tells us they can endanger someone's life (sounds a lot like murder!) As believers, and members of the body of Christ, we must be very attentive against spreading gossip and slander. Nothing destroys the image of God faster than a believer who tears down another believer.

There are many issues that we face in our society today that are connected to the issue of murder. Abortion, war, and capital punishment are just the beginning. These are good discussions to have, and for some guidance on them I would point you to the CGGC's "Here We Stand" document. I also encourage you to seek out either me or Pastor Don, and we'll grab a cup of coffee and dive into this discussion with you. Above all, pray and seek understanding from the Holy Spirit.

Praying we all come to a deeper understanding of God's truths…

~ Pastor Brian

"Find Your People" with Jenny Allen. Never in the history of civilization have we been more connected and felt more alone. We are all so lonely. What if the ways we have set up our lives are fundamentally broken? In the Find Your People Bible study, bestselling author Jennie Allen looks at the original community in Genesis, the Trinity, and the creation of people to see what God had planned for us all along. Jennie offers practical solutions for creating true community in a world that's both more connected and more isolating than ever before. Drawing on fascinating insights from science and history, timeless biblical truth, and vulnerable stories from her own life, Jennie helps us discover exactly how to dive into the deep end and experience the full wonder of community. Along the way, we'll discover the five life patterns required to build deep, connected relationships. You were created to play, engage, adventure, and explore—with others. Because while the ache of loneliness is real, it doesn't have to be your reality. There are 7 videos, ranging 16-21 minutes. Video designed for use in a group setting with the options to purchase Find Your People Study Guide and Find Your People Conversation Cards. Leader's Guide is included in the Study Guide.

"5 Dysfunctions of a Team" with Patrick Lencioni. Teams come in all shapes and sizes and they are made up of individuals with specific skills and personalities. When brought together, they can result in great dysfunction or create a profitable foundation for an organization's product and its people. In this updated version of The Five Dysfunctions of a Team, best-selling author Patrick Lencioni will provide the keys to understanding where teams struggle most and offer tools for navigating those struggles in a positive manner. Using fresh case studies and compelling illustrations from his own career, Patrick will show how functional teams need more than the right people. They require a culture that promotes unity, growth, and vision. The Five Dysfunction of a Team will provide you with the necessary principles for effective management and team practices that will set you up for the prospect of long-term success. NOTE: This is a great teaching for those in leadership. There are two RNM teachings on the topic. The first has two video training sessions, 31 and 14 minutes respectively. It comes with a free leaders' guide and handout. The second is an outline designed to help a leader work through the video training content with a team, complete with slides, main points, and video clips. You also have the option of purchasing the book, "5 Dysfunctions of a Team".

"Adulting" with Jonathan Pokluda. After strenuous studies, you walk across the stage, gripping your diploma—you've arrived. Adult at last. But all of a sudden, instead of a diploma you hold a paycheck in one hand and a stack of bills in the other. You find yourself swimming in the treacherous seas of adulthood surrounded by 401ks, insurance, bosses, potential spouses, and everything in between. How can you begin to navigate your 20s and 30s, and still honor God in the process? In this 6-part series, pastor Jonathan Pokluda speaks to young adults on the art of "adulting" for Christ. He'll walk through how to discern God's will for your life right now and specify how you can best glorify Him through your career, relationships, and commitments. There are free leaders' guides and particpants' handouts to accompany the videos, which range from 14 to 19 minutes in length. This is a GREAT study or discussion starter for older high school students and young adults! Topics include God's will; Career; Singleness; Dating; Commitment; and Faith.

Modeling Grace in the Pro-Life Message

By Dr. Craig Von Buseck
https://focusonthefamily.com

Young people are often confused by rhetoric coming from their peers, schools, and media. How can parents respond when asked about abortion? We stand on the precipice of an historic transformation, both for good and for evil, as we process the landmark ruling by the Supreme Court overturning Roe v. Wade. Now is the time for us to be honing our pro-life messages and teaching our children, what does it mean to be pro-life. The headlines today are like the opening lines of Charles Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities: "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness ... it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair..."
With this change, the legality of abortion is now placed in the hands of the legislature of each state. It is the best of times in that twenty-six states will likely ban or restrict access to abortion as a result. It is the worst of times in that the other twenty-four states will continue to provide abortions—in some cases all the way up to nine months. In response to this highly polarized issue, young people today are often confused by rhetoric coming from their peers, schools, and media. So how can a Bible-believing parent respond to questions from their children and teens when they ask about abortion? How can we teach our children to defend life in a gracious, yet articulate and persuasive way? Since the earliest days of Christianity, believers have been faced with difficult moral questions, just as we do today. How have parents navigated these difficult waters, striving to uphold biblical morality and to walk in the teachings of Christ while living in a fallen world? What are some lessons from scripture and from Christian history that can help parents guide their children today – helping them to become pro-life kids?

The Commandment of Love

On the night Jesus was betrayed to his death, he made this declaration to his followers: "A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another: just as I have loved you, you also are to love one another." (John 13:34, ESV) Loving others is not just a suggestion for the follower of Christ. Instead, it is His final commandment before he went to the cross.
Hateful and hurtful rhetoric surrounds the question of abortion. Parents can explain to their children that the hearts of people who support abortion will not be changed through derogatory language. Scripture admonishes us to "speak the truth in love" (Ephesians 4:15). Because this is such a highly charged subject, it's important for parents to guide their children and model speaking the truth, but doing so in a loving and gracious way.

Living in Grace and Truth

In the abortion debate—like other emotionally-charged issues—people of faith often rush to defend the truth. However, we must be careful to teach our children to follow the example of Jesus in how we communicate this truth. Jesus is the model for how to communicate with others: "For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ." (John 1:17, ESV) It's important for our children to know that when confronting unbiblical behavior in our culture, we must place grace as a foundation to truth, just as Jesus did. Those who exclude grace and love from truth can often appear harsh, unloving, and judgmental.

In his famous discourse on love, the Apostle Paul declares of those who place truth ahead of love: If I speak in the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal. (1 Cor. 13:1, ESV) Those who advocate abortion will likely only hear a noisy gong if someone tries to argue with them, especially if they argue in anger. As the writer of Proverbs teaches: A soft answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger. (Proverbs 15:1, ESV)

The Path of Nonviolence

The lesson of nonviolence is another vital concept parents must model for their children when confronting deception and unbiblical behavior. In accepting the Nobel Prize for his leadership of the Civil Rights movement in America, Martin Luther King, Jr. explained the wisdom behind nonviolent protest: "We adopt the means of nonviolence because our end is a community at peace with itself. We will try to persuade with our words, but if our words fail, we will try to persuade with our acts." (King, Martin Luther. "The Nobel Lecture." The Nobel Prize.) King's notion of nonviolence includes these key principles.

- One can resist evil without resorting to violence.
- Nonviolence seeks to win the "friendship and understanding" of the opponent, not to humiliate him (King, Stride, 84).
- Evil itself, not the people committing evil acts, should be opposed.
- Those committed to nonviolence must be willing to suffer without retaliation as suffering itself can be redemptive.
- Nonviolent resistance avoids "external physical violence" and "internal violence of spirit" as well: "The nonviolent resister not only refuses to shoot his opponent but he also refuses to hate him" (King, Stride, 85).
- The resister should be motivated by love in the sense of the Greek word agape... (King, Stride, 86).

The nonviolent resister must have a "deep faith in the future," stemming from the conviction that "the universe is on the side of justice" (King, Stride, 88).

Knowing The Truth Will Make You Free

It is vitally important that parents teach children the truth about abortion and its effects. Our children must be given the information they need to defend the cause of life. Here are just a few items parents can teach their kids to equip them in the abortion debate.

- Science proves life begins at conception as a new human being with a unique genetic code.
- More than 5,000 biologists from academic institutions worldwide were surveyed and 96% affirmed that human life begins at fertilization.
- A human being is a person, regardless of their biological development, decline or overall health.

- The Constitution explicitly protects every person's right to life.

A woman's secondary right to liberty cannot overrule an unborn person's fundamental right to life.

Living a Pro-Life Lifestyle

As parents, we must exemplify a pro-life lifestyle for our kids. One of the most frequent arguments I hear is that abortion is necessary because there are not enough resources to care for pregnant mothers and their babies. Pro-life advocates and people of faith must rise to fill this gap. Vision is easier caught than taught. In addition to teaching children the arguments against abortion, parents must also model ways to live out their pro-life convictions. Here are some ways you can model the pro-life lifestyle in practical ways:

- Volunteer at your local women's care center or pro-life medical clinic.
- Travel to Washington, D.C. to attend the annual March for Life
- Attend local prayer rallies for life.
- Become a church liaison for your local pro-life center.
- Bring your expertise into service as a member of your pro-life center advisory committee or board of directors.

Participate in local pro-life fundraising efforts, not only by giving, but by getting involved in practical ways to carry the load.

To the Least of These

The apostle James gives us two valuable passages that provide wisdom that we can teach our children to use when dealing with any contentious and controversial topic.

Know this, my beloved brothers: let every person be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger. (James 1:19, ESV)

Who is wise and understanding among you? By his good conduct let him show his works in the meekness of wisdom. (James 3:13, ESV)

As parents, it's our responsibility to train our children to strive to be Christlike in every encounter, to listen in a calm demeanor and then to speak the wisdom of God in love and grace. In the end, we as parents must continually remind our children of the words of Jesus, "...as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me." (Matthew 25:40, ESV) In this fallen world, I strongly believe that part of that training needs to include the aspect of being pro-life.
